Abstract: We all are familiar to the word reservation, it is like a positive discrimination in our country. The implantation of this policy came for the development of backward class peoples, OBC, SC and ST but now it becomes the big issue for country in sense of equality. This paper is look on the solution of this system. If we think then it should be like that, those whom are taking the opportunity of reservation and developing themselves, it is their responsibility to give return to the country. So it is simply can return in the form of extra kind of tax as compare to non-reservation takers. If this kind of law will pass then we have a nation like : Development with equality.

I. INTRODUCTION

The system of reservation in India comprises a series of affirmative action measures, also known as positive discrimination in the U.K.

We live in a democratic country and we all have our own rights of freedom. At the same time it is necessary on the part of state to ensure that equality provides in all section of all society.

However in today's time one of the critical obstacle to this equality is the reservation system.

As India is a developing nation currently facing many challenges and the reservation system is one of the main challenge among this. The main question behind this reservation system is that whether implimation of this is helpful to the downcasts.

If we see the current scenario clearly then it is seen that the lower cast are still discriminated in their daily live. So to uproot cartelism, it is important that we should fight on to development, competency, equality and unity.

The history of cast system in India is very long. In India by birth there are devideation of people on the basis of their occupation like teaching, preaching, kingship, war etc.. but soon it become an instrument to divide the society on cast basis creating various walls between different section of the society.

So first we need to understand that the reservation system only divide the society leading to discrimination on conflicts between diffrent section. It is oppressive and does not find its basis in cartelism. It is actually the antithesis of a communal living.

As we seen that due to this reservation system, there are many peoples whom are capable but they are not in reservation quota are unable for any kind of educational opportunity.

As we have seen in recent past time there were some communities like jatt, gurjer and patidar stood against this reservation system.

In their action they did many carfues, strikes (violence) due to this the whole country affected by this reservation system.

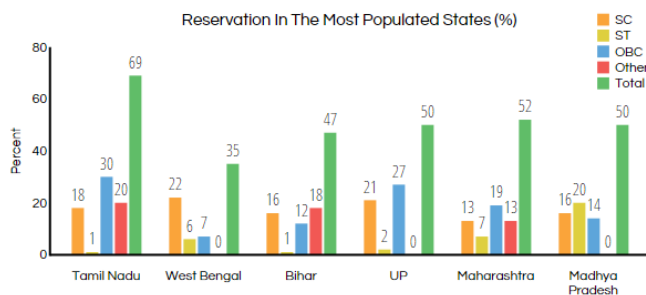

In India reservation is given on the following basis:

- ✓ CASTE: It is very peculiar to India as large number of lower castes suffered long by the hands of the upper castes thus to bring them to the mainstream so that they can become partners in the upliftment and betterment of country reservation is given on the basis of castes. The principle category of castes includes scheduled tribe. Also there is one more category called as other backward class (OBC) which is not the principle category, but has received the advantages of reservation.

- ✓ RELIGION: In few states like Andhra Pradesh, Kerala there is provision for reservation on the basis of religion.
- ✓ DOMICILE: In some states in few areas posts are reserved for the domicile of that state.
- ✓ GENDER: For woman few seats are reserved in some educational institutes and in some state services.

II. METHODOLOGY

Development is a revolution we all know that, but if we talk about the equality -then there is a difference. We all want development but we don't want reservation. This system should not be there because it is directly or indirectly affect the citizens from their rights, by knowing all this facts still the government not taking any actions against it because there is approx 34 % of voting media is in the hands of OBC, SC and ST, but this theme of reservation is diversely affecting to us.

If we think for a while about the reservation then there comes only one thing in our mind is that the development of the peoples or tribes whom are not able to develop themselves due to their bad economical conditions. This peoples are known as backward caste people. They are called backward because they have bad economy condition and due to this they can't afford the education and unable to develop themselves and we know that the first need of development is a good education. So the government implant the reservation system for them. There is not a little bit of chance to get reservation for the peoples whom are not in backward caste although they have bad economy condition.

Furthermore if we connect the reservation with money base then the money which is given to them is just for the development of them. The aim behind is only development of backward peoples.

The government give the reservation to the people for their development and the development of people is directly connected to the development of nation. Now, if we think further then after taking this kind of all facilities the peoples start to develop and they are now no more undeveloped people. So according to me its now the responsibility of a good citizen to return the government so that it could develop.

The whole concept is very simple, after getting educational or any kind of facility by the individual people will one day get a good job and then the responsibility is start from his/her individual side. The individual person should return to the government what they had taken from it in form of reservation. And the way is nothing but is "income tax".

This returning system is connected to the tax. The amount of tax for the reservation taker is much more than the others whom haven't under reservation. They should return to the government in the form of some extra tax.

And those don't want to pay extra tax and are able to develop themselves without taking reservation should leave the reservation.

The whole procedure is done by the government. For this extra tax policy the government have to make some special kind of rules and there should be a time period for paying the extra tax. After completion of the taking amount from the government through tax, the extra tax process should ended for them and then they will able to pay normal tax as all citizen pay. As we know that this extra tax process is just for the reservation peoples so we can also say it as "reservation tax".

If this kind of policy will come then there are many benefits of this extra tax system. First of all the peoples whom are thinking that the government has did injustice to them by reservation system they get satisfaction. Another benefit is that those who are genuinely need the reservation will get it time to time and by this the country also can develop easily and then there will definitely a satisfactory and harmony among everyone.

This extra tax procedure is similar to the bank loan system. As we take loan from bank for our need and return to the bank after some time. The same process is in this extra tax policy.

The each and every citizen of country paid the tax whether they comes under reservation or not. But in this extra tax system the reservation citizens have to pay some extra tax as per the time period given by the government. Because after taking reservation facility the individual person is now no more backward and he/she can develop themselves and also can get all of to the government which they had given by the government.

III. CONCLUSION

Although the reservation policy implant for the development of SC and ST kind of backward caste, but instead of development it causes more discrimination in society. And for years the system still as it is, there is no change in it regarding revise it or make any of change for welfare of all citizens by government. Just because the population of ST and SC (approx 34%) it is a major voting platform for them. But we all want development, for that there should be improvement in this reservation system. Not for the individual but for the whole country so we all can grow together.
